Sanaa, March 28 (RHC)-- U.S. airstrikes pounded at least 40 locations across Yemen early Friday, including in the capital Sana'a, as the Trump administration continues its military campaign against the Houthis. At least seven people were injured, according to early on-the-ground reports.

A coalition of advocacy groups — DAWN, Action Corps and Just Foreign Policy — are demanding an end to the U.S. attacks, saying they violate the U.N. Charter and that “Congress should stop strikes on Yemen and uphold its sole authority to declare war under Article I of the Constitution and the 1973 War Powers Resolution.”

At least 57 people have been killed since the U.S. bombing resumed on March 15th after Houthi fighters said they would resume Red Sea cargo attacks over Israel’s renewed all-out war on Gaza.
