

Central American Countries to Review Progress of Joint Prosperity Program

San Salvador, February 17 (RHC)-- The Foreign Minister of El Salvador, Hugo Martínez, has confirmed that representatives of his country, Honduras and Guatemala will meet on February 24th in Washington with U.S. Vice President Joseph Biden.

The meeting will check on advances of the agreements of the Alliance for Prosperity of the Northern Triangle of Central America, which seek to boost the countries' productive sector.

The agreements are also designed to create economic opportunities for human capital, improve security and access to justice, and strengthen the institutions to increase people's trust and confidence in government.
