

America Hosts More than 2,000 Zika Cases

Washington, March 3 (RHC)-- The Pan-American Health Organization (PAHO) said there are 2,765 confirmed Zika cases in the Americas, the majority in Latin America and the Caribbean.

The PAHO numbers in 134,000 the suspects of having contracted the disease transmitted by Aedes Aegypti mosquito and do not manifest symptoms, or do not seek medical attention because the symptoms are too mild, and branded the figures conservative.
